Wilderness Wildlife Museum Outdoor Adventure Camp

Join us for some outdoor sporting fun! The WWM is focused on our youth's interest in the outdoor sports and the conservancy of the environment. Activities will include instruction in the following areas: wilderness first aid, camping, fishing, shotgun safety, trap shooting and outdoor conservation.

Wilderness Wildlife Museum
Established 2004

The main focus of the WWM is education, and there are three main areas of focus:

1. The history, culture, practice and ethics of hunting and field sports all over the world.
2. The biology of plants and animals native to the United States and another part of the world.
3. The impact of human activities on the global environment and local ecosystems and how individuals can practice environmental stewardship in everyday life.

Our Museum

The WWM is home to a large collection of wild game specimens indigenous to North America and South America. Visitors can experience first hand a variety of animals, and records of their habits and behavior. The museum library contains a variety of books, articles, photographs and video. These reference sources are further incorporated into educating the public on preserving and conserving our outdoor resources, wildlife and heritage.

Camper Stay and Activities

Most activities and camping will take place on the grounds of the WWM. Safety is a main concern for us so our instructors possess certification in a wide variety of outdoor sportsman areas, as well as medical areas. A field trip to Buffer Creek Sporting Clays in Somerset, Pennsylvania is also part of camper's stay.

Further personal instruction is also available for individual certification in wilderness first aid/CPR and NRA certified firearms education courses offered by WWM.
